

GOVERNMENT CONSIDERS USING "INCH" LINES TO BRING NATURAL GAS TO EAST DURING THE COAL CRISIS; 21 STATES PREPARE TO DIM LIGHTS MONDAY IN FEDERAL BROWN-OUT

Reliable Official Source Says Pipeline Proposal is Being Studied—Non-Essential Lighting in All Communities Served by Coal-Burning Electric Companies To Be Curtailed—Claim 100 Million Cubic Feet of Gas a Day Can Be Pushed Through Cross-Country Lines

(By Charles B. Selig, L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(INS)—The Government today reportedly was considering using the "big inch" and "little inch" oil pipelines to bring natural gas to the East during the coal crisis as 21 States prepared to dim their lights Monday in a Federal brown-out.

A reliable official source said that representatives of the Army, Navy, Interior Department, Federal Power Commission and War Assets Administration were studying the pipeline proposal.

The brown-out order was issued by the Civilian Production Administration in an effort to stretch dwindling coal supplies. Non-essential lighting in all communities served by coal-burning electric companies in 21 States will be curtailed at 6 P. M. (E.S.T.) Monday.

The District of Columbia also was covered by the order but the Capital turned down its lights last midnight under a similar local edict which so affected nearby suburban Maryland.

Accompanying the brown-out order was a directive providing for curtailment of gas service. This comes effective when a gas producing company's coal or coke stock is equal to or less than a three-week supply. It provides a formula for the gradual reduction of service as the coal supply dwindles.

Government officials were informed by private industry that as much as 100 million cubic feet of gas a day could be pushed through the 500-mile cross-country oil pipelines. In terms of heat produced, this would equal about 4,000 tons of coal a day.

The government source pointed out that this amount would put only the smallest nick in the shortage caused by the loss of coal production. He added, however, that the agencies involved are proceeding on the theory that "every little bit helps."

It was emphasized that the emergency use of the pipelines for gas could in no way prejudice their final disposition. They are government owned and now are being offered for sale by the WAA.

Affected by the brown-out order were Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia.

More serious cuts in electric service in the affected communities are provided for under the order if power plant coal stocks drop to a 15-day supply or lower. Among these is a 65% reduction in trolley and interurban electric railway service.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANNED BY SCRIBES

William L. Stackhouse, assistant county detective, reports that Preston Lear, 75, who lived alone in a house near Durham, was burned alive in his home Wednesday evening.

Unidentified passersby discovered that the home had been completely destroyed by fire and Mr. Lear was found dead inside about 10 o'clock last night.

A Bethlehem woman physician, Dr. Jane M. Leibfried, who was injured when a car driven by a man suffering from a diabetic condition swerved in her path, was exonerated at an inquest held by Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, at Quakertown Wednesday.

Dr. Leibfried, who sustained fractures of the knee cap, ribs and torn ligaments, and was hospitalized for five weeks, was charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Harvey A. Smith, 72, Quakertown, who died September 20, two days after the two-car collision.

Smith was operating his car on Route 209, about two miles north of Quakertown September 18 when he "felt himself getting sick."

Smith, who died two days later in Quakertown Community Hospital, admitted that he remembered

Three Little Brothers Buried in One Casket

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 23.—Three little brothers, who met a tragic death when their small one-story home was levelled by flames on Wednesday, were buried in one casket yesterday afternoon.

The tiny forms were placed in a white plush casket on which appeared a single name plate, bearing their names: William Daniels, six months; Mark Daniels, Jr., two years; and Raymond Daniels, three years. The top of the casket was covered with a floral spray, a token from their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Daniels. There was no viewing.

At two o'clock the Rev. Clifford J. Pollock, pastor of Morrisville Presbyterian Church, officiated at a service at the Hooper funeral home. Many co-workers of Mr. Daniels, a truck driver for Starkey Farms, together with their families, and others attended the service. Burial was made in Morrisville Cemetery, the grave being the first one in a new lot which the family purchased. The casket was interred in a concrete vault.

The boys' grief-stricken mother, Mrs. Erna Daniels, 23, appeared at the service with her one hand bandaged, she having been burned in a futile attempt to safely rescue the baby. The baby died enroute to a Trenton hospital. The three surviving brothers did not attend the service.

The tragedy occurred when an oil stove exploded at the Daniels home on Wednesday morning. The charred bodies of Mark and Raymond, locked in each other's arms, were found beneath the ruins of a bed after the house was levelled.

Inside Your Congress

Work and Educate!

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

The election is a suspended sentence—a reprieve from State Socialism—a few months, or a year or two of grace. That's all. The time before the assault begins again should be devoted to a year-round campaign of education on the basic economics of the competitive market system.

Popular polls show that 51% of our people do not know what a balanced budget is; that only 30% understand what free enterprise means; that only 1 voter in 4 knows what the Bill of Rights is; that millions believe there is some magical way by which government can create wealth; that a huge debt is of no importance because we owe it to ourselves; that government can guarantee "security"; that 72% believe as much or more is disbursed to capital as is paid out in pay envelopes; that everyone in Russia gets the same pay.

Is it any wonder that European State Socialism has made such inroads on the American mind? Each one of these myths is false. But who has shown them to be so?

It must be taught in words that bounce along the sidewalk that wealth and "security" come only from work, and not from the printing press, or by writing more dollars.

COURIER MANAGEMENT.

ELECTION SCANDAL

Washington dispatches say that Attorney General Tom Clark is going to probe election irregularities in connection with the purging of Congressman Slaughter in Missouri.

Since the principal targets of such an investigation would be Mr. Clark's boss, President Truman, and Mr. Clark's own Department of Justice, it will take a miracle for the probe to produce anything but whitewash.

The episode is one of the most disgraceful of which any American President ever has been guilty.

President Truman got "mad" at Slaughter for a very simple reason—the Congressman refused to take the President's orders. With the vindictiveness which has marked other phases of President Truman's personal record, the Chief Executive set out to punish Slaughter by defeating him at the polls.

To do this, the President called in his gang. He himself, with all the prestige and power of the White House behind him, led the fight. The National Democratic Committee, in the person of Chairman Hannegan, threw the weight of the party's patronage into the fray.

Next the President yelled to his CIO friends for aid, and the vast campaign resources of the PAC were focused on the district. This array being deemed insufficient, President Truman turned to another set of his old friends, the Pendergast political machine of evil repute, and summoned their aid in fighting Slaughter.

The unfairness and unscrupulousness of throwing these vast political goliaths against a lone Congressman in an obscure district is perfectly obvious.

But presently it turned out that Slaughter was the sort of David who could take on and lick all of these giants in a fair fight.

Whatever remaining respect one may feel for President Truman up to this point goes out the window with the next development.

STORES ARE READY FOR XMAS SHOPPERS

Gala Decorations Call Attention to Big Array of Gift Suggestions

Stores here are ready for you Mr. and Mrs. Christmas Shopper! Shelves are burdened and cases are bulging with articles appropriate for gifts. The range of selections is varied, and there are gifts for "mom," "dad," "sister Susie," and "brother Jimmie."

There are expensive gifts such as diamonds and other jewels, pieces of household furniture, fur-trimmed coats, evening gowns, bicycles, and toys of the luxury class. Then there are gifts for which those of an economical trend of mind always search, and despite the fact of their comparative inexpensiveness, they are designed to please the recipient.

The decorations, beginning in the display windows and reaching to the innermost corners of the stores, lend a holiday atmosphere to a shopping tour.

It will be like a visit to Santa Claus for kiddies to accompany their parents on a shopping tour. There will be many "ohs" and "ahs" as the youngsters in ecstasy look upon those things which please their hearts and delight their imagination.

The recent war has lent a certain trend to the types of toys, adding many field pieces, small weapons of the newer type, and the latest type of sea craft.

PLEXIGLAS BOAT IS LAUNCHED IN RIVER

Said To Be The First Craft Made of That Product; 18-Ft. Sports Runabout

Said to be the only plexiglas boat in existence, an 18-foot sports runabout, with seven-foot beam, was launched in the Delaware River at the Anchor Yacht Club this week.

The fact that the boat is made of plexiglas means low up-keep, claim the owners and builders, for there will be no bills for cleaning the hull—barnacles and seaweed not adhering to the plexiglas surface.

The sports runabout, as yet unnamed, is a brilliant red and white craft. It was built by three young men who form the Maine Plastic Boat Company, of South Portland, Me., namely William Faulkner, R. McKinnon and Maynard Scott, all of South Portland.

The plexiglas was secured from Rohm & Haas Co., here, and when the boat was completed the owners brought it to Bristol so they might have experimental advice from Rohm & Haas Co. officials. Tests, they claim, have proven plexiglas practical for boat-building.

DECLINE OF THE MACHINES

In appraising the results of the elections, one significant point which should not be overlooked is the terrible beating which has been administered to the big city machines. These machines—in New York City, Chicago, Kansas City, Boston and Hudson County, N. J., have been the core of Democratic strength in the North for 16 years. In election after election they have piled up the votes which provided the margin of victory.

Now all five of these once powerful organizations lie badly shattered. The Kelly machine in Chicago, unbeatable in its prime, salvaged only a single office out of the landslide which swept over its Cook County stronghold. The Hague machine, which once ruled New Jersey politics, is reeling under the heaviest majorities ever administered by Republicans in that state. Although still strong in its home territory of Hudson County, its power has so declined that the Democrats managed to win only one major battle in the state, that for a state Senate seat.

Returns from other cities tell the same story of the decline of the machines. Senator-elect Lodge carried Boston by more than 17,000. In NYC Mead polled 850,000 votes, compared to the 1,800,000 ballots cast for Governor Dewey, although American Labor and Liberal party votes, added to his total, carried the Democratic candidate to a meager 189,000 majority in the city. The Pendergast machine in Kansas City, rocked by the investigation of six years ago, reached its lowest ebb when it lost the key county jobs to Republicans and anti-machine Democrats.

It is perhaps too soon to sound the death-knell of these organizations. But it is certainly doubtful whether they can recover from their defeats in time to cut much ice in the 1948 presidential election.

NEW DEAL CASUALTY

One of the more serious crimes perpetrated by the New Deal is the death of apple pie. Because of rationing and price control of sugar and an OPA-created dearth of shortening, this great American institution has all but disappeared from the family table. There are imitations, of course, as there always are when bureaucrats deprive the people of something which was always available to them in a free economy. But the genuine article has all but disappeared.

There should be a law against counterfeiting apple pie. Youngsters who never knew the genuine article will have their sense of taste impaired, and will not understand what their elders are talking about when they describe the real thing. In whatever form it formerly appeared—covered, uncovered, cross-barred or deep-dish variety—it was a stomach-filling, heart-warming creation.

Given a few apples, a bit of shortening and sufficient sugar, Mother could turn out a bit of pastry the taste of which will linger long in the memory of those who partook of it.

For, when this anti-Slaughter juggernaut found it could not beat Slaughter in a fair fight, it proceeded to steal the election.

That is the inescapable conclusion from the election returns. It also is the conclusion of the Congressional Committee which has investigated the matter and turned its findings over to the Attorney General. The Committee reports that its evidence indicates:

"... dishonest counting of the ballots, impersonation of voters by known individuals, illegal voting and illegal influencing of voters by payment of money, coercion and misrepresentation."

This is a frightful indictment to be brought in by a Democratic committee concerning an election in which the Democratic President was involved—up to his neck. It is bound to remind many that President Truman himself first went to the U. S. Senate with the fraudulent votes of 50,000 names copied from tombstones by this same Pendergast gang.

But the Democratic chairman of the investigating committee washes his hands of further action, on the specious grounds that the qualifications of elected Congressmen are not involved, since the man who "defeated" Slaughter in the primary was himself defeated in the Republican landslide.

The weakness of this reasoning lies in the fact that, if the votes for Slaughter had been honestly cast and honestly counted, Slaughter obviously would have won; and he, not the discredited victor, would have been the man to oppose the Republican nominee. Then the outcome might have been different. Elections run as this one was cannot be said to reflect the free opinion of the voters of the district.

As for the Attorney General, however unpleasant and unsavory it would be to press a probe thus gunned against the Chief Executive who holds the Clark's job in his grip, it would be just as unpleasant from the Department of Justice's point of view.

There is probably no more spineless legal opinion on record than that of the Justice Department refusing to test the legality of the PAC program under the Smith-Connolly Act.

It is now being argued by some that the law ought to be strengthened. But laws on the statute books are not magic; they don't enforce themselves. The best of laws is valueless unless the government has officials with sufficient integrity to enforce it against all comers—regardless of politics.

The opinion permitting the PAC to proceed regardless of the Smith-Connolly Act was written in the heat of a political campaign by those whose first interest was to win the Fourth Term election. It has never been, as such opinions always should be, tested before any competent Federal court.

The layman who attempts to follow the legal reasoning which exempts the PAC from the law's provisions is apt to wind up counting his fingers or cutting paper dolls. But he can comfort himself with the knowledge that a great many lawyers have declined to accept as valid the official Justice Department opinion in the matter.

The chairman of the Slaughter investigating committee, J. Percy Priest (D., Tenn.) put the matter in a nutshell. Said he:

"There is absolutely no limit to the amount of money somebody else can spend for a candidate. The only qualification is that it must be spent without the candidate's consent or knowledge."

Now, the legal point revolves on these words, "consent or knowledge." The only way in which the PAC's work in 1944, for example, could be brought within the law was by assuming that neither President Roosevelt nor Democratic Chairman Hannegan had "knowledge" of it, or had given "consent" to it.

The assumption is ridiculous. We know, as a matter of fact, that it was all talked over among the parties. Even if it hadn't been, newspapers were full of it. To argue that what everyone knows, the two men who had the most reason to keep abreast of political matters did not know, is to argue an absurdity.

As a legal matter, it is well known that proof of intent or consent, where it must be proven, is often difficult. But in a host of legal matters, the intent is largely taken for granted; a burden of disproof clearly rests on the defendant; intent is assumed unless disproven.

The Justice Department's quibble nullifies the whole purpose of the Smith-Connolly Act. By assuming first, that it has to bring specific proof of "consent and knowledge", and second, that because such a requirement sometimes is difficult in these cases it would be impossible, simply throws into the ash-can the statutory provisions intended to insure fair and free elections.

The absurdity of the Department's assumption is still more clearly revealed in the case of a state like Pennsylvania, where the Federal agents still continue to assume that the candidates have neither "consent or knowledge" of PAC's work—although, in conformity with State law, these identical Democratic candidates were required to, and did, sign letters specifically authorizing PAC expenditures on their behalf.

Stores Are Ready For Xmas Shoppers

For the practical giver, there is a bountiful supply of clothing for both sexes and all ages; there are school supplies; toiletries; stationery.

There are electric trains, mechanical trains, jeeps with electric headlights. A "steam shovel," mechanically operated, is delighting future "contractors" at one local store.

Dolls for the tots open and close their eyes, and some cry "Mamma!" Doll "buggies," doll dishes, furniture, etc., will please the little "home-maker."

For the adult who enjoys adornment, there are rings, necklaces, earrings, pins, and the ever useful wrist-watch. A gift for the house-hold is suggested by the array of silver flat-ware and hollow-ware.

In the furniture line, in addition to full suites, there are occasional tables, lamps, bookcases, desks, rugs, and the like; and, although some electrical appliances are still scarce, there are to be had toasters, waffle irons, sweepers, heaters, radios, and countless others.

Big Audience Proclaims "Patsy" Fine Success

The initial performance of the senior play, "The Patsy," was proclaimed "a great accomplishment" by a large and enthusiastic audience last evening at Bristol high school. The play, combined with a "talented cast and careful coaching," resulted in a rousing success, patrons claim.

The curtain rose at 8:15 on a highly expectant audience, eager for a good display of senior talent. Inspired by the audience's spontaneous laughter and applause, the cast endeavored to work for perfection.

For many in the cast, it was their first major appearance in a large production. Yet the apparent absence of the usual "first night" nervousness and fright made them appear as professionals, according to close observers. All turned in outstanding performances.

Patricia Ennis, excelling in her portrayal of Patricia Harrington, caused everyone to love and sympathize with the poor, misunderstood "Patsy" and cheer for her in her final victory. Timothy Bersant, portraying "Pop" Harrington, carried the play through with fast-moving action and comedy. Joanne Miller, as the temperamental mother, and "Betty" Burtonwood, as "Patsy's" selfish sister, Grace, turned in convincing performances. The romantic element was aptly supplied by Robert Werry and Herbert Neseth in their respective portrayals of Anthony Anderson and William Caldwell.

Others who deserve credit are: Charlotte Brill, Elmer Roberts and Howard Stark. Charlotte enacted the part of a mutual friend; Elmer, a rather sassy matter-of-fact taxi-cab driver; and Howard, an accomplice of "Patsy" in one of her mysterious undertakings.

The performance will be staged again this evening in the high school auditorium at 8:15.

An Interesting Liver Casserole

If you ever run out of ideas for new and interesting ways to serve liver, try this winning casserole dish. It features the ever-popular combination of liver and onions, but with several novel features. The liver is in the form of patties, which are put on top of creamed onions. Sweet pickles and thyme are used for extra flavor.

Liver and Onion Casserole

6 sweet gherkins
1½ cups mashed potatoes
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
4 tablespoons bacon drippings
Creamed onions

Lay slices of bacon over patties and bake, uncovered, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes or until bacon is browned. Serves 6.

Nice Teeth a Beauty Asset

Movie star Anita Louise has teeth which show the result of good care.

By HELEN FOLLETT

SHINING white, healthy teeth are pearls of great price. They are treasures to be cherished not only for the sake of good looks but for the sake of one's health. Infections in the biters can be carried to other parts of the body, cause serious illnesses.

Insidious enemies in the form of bacteria are present all the time, waiting to find lodgings. Teeth that are kept scrupulously cleaned, brushed after each meal, have a better chance of combating germs than those that are neglected. Deposits left in the mouth by starches and sweets change in character in a few hours, and can become a menace. Brush until the teeth shine. Dip the finger in a dentifrice now and then and massage the gums to keep the circulation lively.

If Gums Bleed
If the gums bleed, it is possible that tartar has formed; only the dentist's instruments can remove it, so go to his office twice a year for examination, a thorough cleaning and whatever repair work may be necessary.

Some dentists believe that the solution of tooth decay may eventually be found in the field of dietetics. Calcium seems to be a general need; it is found in milk, orange juice, carrots, eggs, celery and cheese. All these foods are included in the balanced diet.

A Good Toothbrush
Select a toothbrush that is not too large, that has bristles set in groups. Have several brushes and as soon as the bristles soften, discard them. Rinse well after using, hang them up to dry. It is a wise practice to use a mouth lotion after scouring the teeth. You can make your own if you wish by dissolving a half teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of baking soda in a glass of water.

Make it a habit to eat raw vegetables to give teeth and gums exercise; carrots, cabbage hearts, turnips will give them work to do. If you find it necessary to use dental floss, be extremely careful not to saw into the gums.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21. — (INS) — Republicans at the State Capitol have expressed the belief that the administration of Governor-elect James H. Duff will be "one of the most progressive" regimes in Pennsylvania in the past century. The Attorney General's sincerity, honesty and executive ability has prompted some chieftains to predict that Duff may gain nationwide recognition as an administrator. He has asserted that his campaign promises were not "conversation" and has outlined a broad policy including pay increases for school teachers and commonwealth employees.

Duff has been the spearhead of the State's clean streams program and was expected to intensify the plan after assuming control of the State Government in January. Duff is an ardent conservationist. The State Historical and Museum commission's program of improving Pennsylvania's historical shrines was expected to be accelerated under Duff's guidance. At the present time, Duff heads the Commission. He also has proposed the establishment of a labor-management committee to improve industrial relations.

Under an act approved 72 years ago, the President Judge of the Dauphin County Court was designated to administer the oath of office to Pennsylvania's Lieutenant-Governors. In past years, however, some Lieutenant Governors have taken their oath of office twice. Once, administered by the Dauphin County Court President Judge, and the second time by a judge from their home county. Usually, the first ceremony is conducted in the Lieutenant Governor's private office and the second in the Senate Chamber. The Act of 1874 provides that if the Dauphin County Judge is unable to attend the ceremony the Secretary of Commonwealth shall designate the President Judge of some other county.

La. Governor-elect Daniel B. Strickler, of Lancaster, will take his oath of office shortly before the inauguration of Governor-elect James H. Duff January 21st.

Philadelphia's Republican delegations to the General Assembly were expected to press next year for increased commonwealth aid to the Quaker City. It was anticipated that both the GOP House and Senate blocs from Philadelphia would exert pressure to obtain larger state grants especially for teachers' salaries.

Many persons have expressed objections to recent 10 per cent price increases at the State Capitol cafeteria. The price boosts, the first since the restaurant was opened in October, 1943, were made to offset increased food prices. Department of Property and Supplies officials said. The price boosts became effective November 12 and included all items except coffee, toast and jelly, tea and cocoa. There have been no complaints about the food.

In addition to naming the members of his official family, Governor-elect James H. Duff will have scores of lesser appointments to make during his tenure. Duff was expected to appoint his Cabinet before assuming office on January 21. He will name an Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Secretaries of Highways and Revenue, all of which carry an annual salary of $12,000. The $10,000-a-year Cabinet posts to be filled by Duff are Insurance Commissioner, Adjutant General and Secretaries of Agriculture, Forests and Waters, Labor and Industry, Health, Welfare, Banking, Mines, Property and Supplies, Public Assistance and Commerce and the Commonwealth. The State Police Commissioner is a member of the official family. The post pays $8,000 a year.

ar marks on pay envelopes. Only the people can produce prosperity, not any party, except as it promotes industry by encouraging the industries.

In Vermont, in the early days, a man dug some iron ore out of the hills. He put 100 pounds of ore on his back and carried it 80 miles to an iron foundry in Troy and then walked 80 miles back home. Infinite toil, a tremendous expenditure of human energy for an insignificant reward. Yet he was not "exploited," for he worked for himself. It was not the "class struggle" that held him down. It was the lack of modern tools and railroad transportation.

The plow that broke the clearing in the wilderness was made of wood. It was constantly breaking. Time spent in repairs was endless. Wooden shovels, wooden forks. Each nail of the pioneer cabin was beaten out on the blacksmith's anvil, one nail at a time. Miles of stone wall dug from the earth by human backs! In the home, women's work was never done. The spinning wheel made cloth very slowly.

Mankind was often brutal, but life itself was brutal in the centuries before free enterprise and the private property system gave the hope of reward to those who made better tools, and better things with the better tools.

When Marx wrote "Das Kapital," women were hatched to cars dragging coal out of British mines. In the textile mills little children worked twelve hours a day and the beds they slept in never got cold, as one shift took the place of the other. Marx was right in what he saw. He was wrong in his diagnosis. He said the main fault was greed and exploitation. He prescribed a war of classes. It was the wrong remedy. There was greed, of course, but a communist redistribution of all wealth would have been but a drop in the bucket in the alleviation of human misery.

He talked about women in the coal mines. Others talked. But who took the women out of the mines? It was the inventor, the engineer, the business organizer, and the thrifty folks who financed the new ideas that substituted slaves of iron and steel for human backs. James Watt, who invented the steam engine, John Deere, who invented the steel plow, and those who followed them, and countless others in other fields, did more to lift the burden of endless drudgery from the shoulders of mankind, than all the "cradle to the grave" reformers that ever lived.

Karl Marx wrote that machinery "sweeps away every moral and natural restriction on the length of the working day." How wrong he was!

This story must be told, and told again.

Rev. Baird Officiates at The Mulligan-Fox Nuptial Mass

The Mulligan-Fox wedding, an event of this morning locally, was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, N. J., at which 60 guests were entertained.

The nuptial mass performed by the Rev. E. Paul Baird, rector, was solemnized in St. Mark's R. C. Church at the hour of 10 o'clock. The bride, Miss Margaret T. Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fox, 333 Radcliffe street, was escorted to the altar by her father, there to become the wife of Mr. Edward J. Mulligan, son of Mrs. Cornelius Mulligan, 162 Buckley street.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Miss Katherine Keating, of Linden street, and by Mrs. Carl Winch, 258 Jackson street, whose vocal selections were inclusive of "The Rosary," "Ave Maria," "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Mary M. Darreff, 233 Radcliffe street; while Mr. Mulligan's attendant was his brother, Mr. John C. Mulligan, Monroe street; the ushers, including Dr. James Fox, 335 Radcliffe street, brother of the bride; and Mr. Lawrence Mulligan, 306 Otter street, brother of the groom.

The attractive white satin bridal gown featured a full-trimmed skirt, and a double-low type bustle. The long sleeves which buttoned at the wrists were tapered over her hands; and the bodice of the gown buttoned down the front from the neck to the short pleated, dainty lace formed the small collar and cap sleeves effect. Attached to her orange blossom head-piece was a short veil of net. The bride wore satin slippers and carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums in various sizes, on which appeared a white satin bow.

Mrs. Darreff was attired in a floor-length gown of royal blue crepe, with drape effect at the knee and the rounded neck-line, trim being of variegated sequins. The gown had cap sleeves. With this was worn a plaited gold tiara, gold-toned slippers, long white kid gloves, and she carried an arm bouquet of gold colored chrysanthemums.

For the wedding Mrs. Fox, mother of the bride, wore a black dress with aqua trim, black felt hat and black accessories. Mrs. Mulligan, mother of the bride-groom, chose a black dress, and black and white accessories. The two wore corsages of white mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulligan are spending two weeks' honeymoon at Miami, Fla. For the journey, the bride selected a dark green wool suit, the coat being three-quarter length and having fitch trim; green felt hat with trim of fitch; brown alligator slippers and bag; and wore a corsage of gold and rust toned chrysanthemums.

The newlyweds will reside at 333 Radcliffe street.

The bride presented the matron of honor with crystal rosary beads; white gifts of the groom to the best man and ushers were pipes.

ST. ANN'S WILL TRY FOR NINTH WIN OF SEASON

Local Eleven Will Meet Burlington A. A. Tomorrow
KICK-OFF AT 2.15 P. M.

"Saints" Claim Championship of Lower Bucks County

St. Ann's A. A. will strive for its ninth win of the season tomorrow afternoon when it meets Burlington A. A. on the Burlington high school field. Opening kickoff is scheduled for 2.15 o'clock.

The "Saints" won the Lower Bucks County championship last Sunday when it beat the Morrisville Alumni team, 7-0. Two weeks ago, the Bristol boys won the Northeast Conference and are now waiting for the playoffs. The defeat handed to Morrisville Alumni was its first loss since 1941.

The "Bulls" are players who formerly donned the uniform of the Burlington high school. They have won five games and lost three. Several weeks ago they were barely noised out by Roebing who went on to win the Burlington County championship.

Coach "Pete" Borne drilled his St. Ann's team twice this week and during the workouts several new plays were tried. These will be used against the Jersey team and if successful, Borne will use them in the playoff games.

The Purple and Gold is still handicapped with several injuries. "Hoby" Merritt, star fullback, was injured last week but indications point to him being able to play with a nose mask. Gus Centonze is still nursing an injured leg while "Jackie" Louder who was injured in the side two weeks ago may be able to play.

Coach Borne feels confident of taking over the boys from across the river and intense rivalry exists, starting when St. Ann's beat the crack Burlington baseball team last summer. Burlington has never forgotten this defeat and is seeking revenge on the gridiron.

Indications point to the following as the St. Ann's starting lineup: Ends, A. Calone and Denny; tackles, Gullatto and Mount; guards, Profy and Sak; center, Rue; quarterback, Baurath; halfbacks, Lelinski and DeMido; fullback, Spencer.

THIRD WARD EAGLES TO PLAY AT LANGHORNE

The Third Ward Eagles will step into the big-time football picture tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Langhorne Aces on Playwick field, Langhorne.

With three wins and one defeat, the Eagles will be up against the club that has won six games and lost one, that defeat being given to it by the Morrisville Alumni.

Several weeks ago, Langhorne scored a win over the Tacony Boys Club, winners of the eastern section of the Northeast Conference. This game was interrupted in the third quarter and Tacony refused to continue to play.

The Eagles have beaten Bensalem, Torresdale, and the Tacony Panthers. Their defeat was at the hands of the Bordentown Manual Training School.

Opening kickoff is scheduled for 2.15 o'clock.

COLORFUL STORY

GOSHEN, Ind.—(INS)—Two-year-old Kenneth Rex had an experience that will be imprinted indelibly on his mind, to say nothing of his stomach. After the lad drank a bottle of indelible ink, his skin changed color and he became seriously ill. Physicians report that he is recovering satisfactorily.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

Continued from Page One being seized by illness and "the next thing I knew I was in the hospital."

Deputy Coroner Raymond D. Tice, M. D., in his testimony, revealed that Smith was subject to diabetic comas and that he died of injuries and complications.

Pvt. John F. Clisham, a member of the Pa. State Police, who investigated the crash, said Smith was sitting beside his car in a field. The stricken motorist was travelling toward Allentown and the physician toward Philadelphia.

Dr. Leibfried, who is connected with the Women's Medical College, Philadelphia, testified she was following another car and had noticed at intervals another car approaching her.

"About five or ten feet ahead of me, Smith's car swerved directly in my path and I jammed on the brakes and deviated as much as I could, but it was too late," Dr. Leibfried said.

The stricken motorist's car left his right-hand lane of the three-lane highway and careened across the center lane into the woman physician's car.

Members of the jury were Alfred S. Laubach, foreman; C. E. Trumbore, William S. Clymer, Berton Knerr and Wilson Shive, Quakertown, and C. Lee Johnston, Cornwells Heights.

CAST CHANGED

Robert Hardy, Beaver street, was taken to Abington Hospital, yesterday by Bucks Co. Rescue Squad, after having a cast on his hip changed, then returning to his home.

The only part of the seven-passenger boat that is made of wood is the keel and ribs, these being mahogany. Every other part, including the windshield, is plexiglas. The boat has trim of chrome. The hull is of the bright red plexiglas, with white opaque plexiglas used as trim. Upholstery is of red leather. The flooring is of transparent plexiglas, covered with black rubber mats. The boat is equipped with a radio receiving set.

For buoyancy "styrofoam" is used, this being a product that came into wide use in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

The fact that oil and dirt do not adhere to the plexiglas, makes for easy cleaning, it merely being necessary to wipe the surface with a cloth. No barnacles, seaweed or grass will cling to it either, state the owners, thus upkeep will be at a minimum. Water will not harm the surface, and no painting is required such as is necessary at frequent intervals with wooden craft.

The boat weighs approximately 1,400 pounds, the weight being only about 80 per cent that of a wooden boat of the same size, it is said.

The actual building time, claim the owners, was 3½ to four weeks.

By Phillips J. Peck

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(INS)—President Truman returns to Washington today to push through the Government's fight against John L. Lewis in the nation-wide walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners.

The President was expected to be given a complete report by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug and Attorney General Tom Clark to whom he issued instructions from his Florida vacation headquarters for a showdown court battle with the UMW.

Mr. Truman was expected to stay in close contact with Krug and Clark. It was believed, however, that he would not take any personal step in the matter until the government's contempt case against Lewis has run its course.

A highly responsible source on Capitol Hill said today that Mr. Truman at present is not considering either:

1. Calling a special session of the 79th Congress to support his "crack-down" on the United Mine Workers president with legislation, or.

2. Appealing to the miners direct to desert, the Lewis line and return to the pits to mine coal that will keep the nation's industrial wheels turning.

Lewis must appear before Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough Monday to explain why he should not be punished for contempt in refusing to cancel a notice terminating the miners' wage contract with the Government.

A NEW JERSEY RESIDENT IS SURPRISED!

"My brother-in-law talked so much about Diamond Sporting Goods immense stock that I came in to see for myself and I sure was surprised.

"They have a swell display of dolls and goodness knows what, and everything is very reasonable.

"Diamond is the best place to do your shopping, and if you are doubtful like I was, just go and take a look and I am sure that you will be surprised and more than pleased by your visit."
